

Roles

One way to determine our identity is to ask the question “Who am I?” Many of the answers to this question are likely to be linked to the roles we occupy. These are often referred to as ‘role identities.’

Who am I?

What are the roles that you identify with? Think about the roles you play at home, in sport, your career as well as any other areas you can think of.

